Introductions and Identification of Values

Everyone was asked to think about what is important to them about cultivating health and wellness in our region and/or why working on this project is important to them. They shared these values with each other in small groups, then with the larger group:

- Empowered individuals / empowered community
- This project provides a holistic / integrated approach to community planning
- Health at a regional level – important to consider an integrated and holistic approach across issues
- Tying public health with other issues (to further public health) and being proactive
- Opportunity and access regardless of $ or location to healthy choices
- The healthy choice as the easy choice & infrastructure to support
- Maintaining a broader view and being inclusive of health disparities and racial inequalities
- Health needs to be included in a sustainability plan to be successful
- Project and goals align with organizational mission (Hot Springs Health Program)
- Healthy & active aging population being involved in the project
- Ensures special needs population ??
- Health promotion is important and includes spirituality and is important and in any community analysis
- Representation of minorities and low income residents
- Differentiating health promotion and disease prevention and the different strategies that each may require. Visioning towards health promotion – optimal health

- Including health in all topic-specific discussions
- Personal fulfillment
- Housing & Health Connections
- Built environment as an obesity reduction tool
- Economic opportunities & benefits related to a built environment that promotes activity
- Distribution of dollars in the health care continuum – using $$ outside of traditional care facilities

Themes

- Integrated
- Inclusive
- Collective impact / common good
- Built & social environment connections (how environments shape behaviors)
- Individual & community / Prevention vs. Promotion and different strategies for each
- Personal fulfillment and empowerment

Outreach follow up:

The group discussed who else would be good to invite to join this workgroup, to ensure a variety of perspectives across the five-county region were represented. After some discussion, Linda noted that all the work groups are trying to assemble a diverse group, representing different perspectives. So, as people reach out to others, encourage them to join the workgroup they are most interested in joining. Rebecca and Linda will send a short write-up that can be included in the body of an email to new participants.

- LeeAnne Tucker will connect with older adults volunteers, Slavic Community and Mtn. Project Inc.
- Linda Block send an announcement to Nuestro Central, the Latino Steering Committee, Building Bridges
- Susan McDonald will follow up with the Urban News
- Brett Sculthorp will follow up with NAMI
- Jessica Stervermer will invite Carolyn Fryberger with the Town of Black Mountain and Recreation community in Haywood, Transylvania and Henderson Counties
- Sarah Thatch – Healthy Carolinians Coordinators in Haywood county
- Julie Lawhorn will follow up with the Haywood county non-profit agency meeting and Transylvania County, TRAIN

Review and Discuss Plan Review:

Important regional issues that were missing in the report

- Food insecurity
- WNC is #1 in the state for disasters
- Children's Issues
- Child Abuse

- Smoking
- Asthma
- Lead
- Injury
- Poisoning
- Women's health / Pre-conception health
- Prescription misuse/abuse
- Diabetes
- Access to wellness – physical activity; healthy food; clean water; clean air

Opportunities to improve health and wellness in our region

(some are duplicative of other previous section)

- Strategic alignment of organizations and programs at the same target
- Agreement to synergize and work towards the same target
- Framing the conversation with a focus on “Positive Health” (rather than focusing on the problems)
 - Include the relevance of positive mental, emotional and spiritual health
 - Positive community health
- Creating a culture of community and social capital
- Self-efficacy
- Optimal wellness wherever you start
- Look at environment as a building block and its linkages to health – this group has the opportunity to look at how health is connected to the natural and built environment
- Access to wellness – physical activity; healthy food; clean water; clean air
- Focus on Prevention
 - Including mental disability prevention
- Cultural competence training for providers
- Management of chronic health conditions
- Nicotine replacement therapy
- Women's health / Pre-conception health
- Build on our positive reputation of quality-to-cost ratio (e.g., WNC has some of the best quality to cost of hospital care ratios compared to the rest of the U.S. – Sarah Thatch)

Selection of Chair and Discussion of Steering Committee Nomination (see handout for details)

Marion Arledge and Brett Sculthorp volunteered to serve as co-chairs and the group welcomed and agreed to their leadership.

At the next meeting – March 13th, 3:00-5:00 p.m., at Land-of-Sky Regional Council - the workgroup will nominate a couple members to serve on the GroWNC Steering Committee.
